Up to 150,000 customers affected

Massive utility cutoffs feared

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — William A. Spratley, Ohio's new utility watchdog and consumer representative, feared mass utility shutoffs beginning today despite gas company assurances to the contrary.

"I don't accept the premise that there is not going to be a mass shutoff. Some people can't even get into these companies because the (telephone) lines are jammed," said Spratley.

He was responding to a Public Utilities Commission of Ohio refusal Thursday to extend for 30 days its order forbidding gas companies from cutting off delinquent accounts. The Jan. 26 PUCO order expired today.

David C. Sweet, the lone commission Democrat, had proposed the extension, claiming it was consistent with Gov. James A. Rhodes' ongoing energy crisis declaration.

C. Luther Heckman, commission chairman, and William S. Newcomb, disagreed. They argued that it was time to force delinquent natural gas customers into making arrangements for paying bills that have been accumulating over the winter.

In an order, with the extension declined, the commission directed each gas utility serving more than 20,000 customers to begin advertising their extended payment plans and to include explanations of that plan in any future communications with customers facing cutoffs.

Despite Spratley's fears, two of Ohio's largest gas utilities predicted it will be near the middle of April before they shut off service for any customer, while Dayton Power & Light Co. said it will not shut off any delinquent customers immediately.

"We're working with our delinquent customers offering them special payment plans to extend their payments over five months," a DP&L spokesman said. He said the company would monitor that program's success before deciding on shutoffs.

Columbia Gas of Ohio said that the first date of shutoffs now that the company is allowed to do that would come about April 12. That would be six days after the company had tried to make personal contact.

East Ohio Gas said the first day it likely would begin cutoffs would be April 11. The company said of 50,000 customers to receive delinquent notices, 5,000 have made payment arrangements.

Sweet claims the commission has learned that Columbia Gas of Ohio made a 18.9 per cent return on equity. East Ohio Gas pulled in a 13.7 per cent return.

Sweet said composite industrial listings of return for unregulated business averages only 12 per cent and suggested the utility returns were more than he likes to see.

The PUCO sets utility rates with an eye to the rate of return to which the companies are entitled.

"Certainly additional consideration for their customers is not an inordinate request," Sweet said.

Sweet said the Cleveland City Council and the Ohio State Legal Services joined him in the request to extend the moratorium.

A company-by-company breakdown of residential customers shows nearly 150,000 with overdue bills. The PUCO staff estimates at least 100,000 of these could be shut off.

Of 960,000 total customers served by East Ohio, 50,000 face shutoffs in the next 20 working days.

West Ohio Gas Co., Lima, reports 3,432 of its 54,000 customers are at least 30 days' delinquent in paying bills.

Ohio Gas Co., Bryan, claims there are 667 out of a total residential service of 19,997 who could face shutoffs.

Columbia Gas of Ohio reports 31,000 delinquent accounts. Columbia serves 970,000 residences in Ohio.

Coffee leads food price hikes

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

Consumers found familiar but unpleasant news at the supermarket during March as price rises for coffee boosted the family grocery bill once again. An Associated Press market-basket survey shows the coffee increases offset savings on scattered other items.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price on March 1, 1973 at one supermarket in each of 13 cities and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed that by the end of March, the cost of a pound of coffee was over $3 at the checklist store in eight cities. The retail prices still lag behind wholesale levels — Folger's announced earlier this week it was boosting its wholesale price to $4.53 a pound.

There are signs, however, that the steadily soaring coffee prices may be causing consumers to switch to other beverages. Some store managers report coffee sales have dropped by as much as 25 per cent since the beginning of the year, while tea sales have gained sharply.

The government is predicting that 1977 food prices will average about 5 or 6 per cent above last year, but warns that continued bad weather in crop-producing areas could drive costs higher.

The AP survey showed that the marketbasket total increased during March at the checklist store in eight cities, rising an average of 2.6 per cent. The bill declined at the checklist store in five cities, dropping an average of 1.7 per cent. On an overall basis, the average marketbasket total was 1 per cent higher at the start of April than it was a month earlier.

The picture was a little worse than it was during February when the marketbasket total increased at the checklist store in seven cities and decreased in six; on an overall basis, the bill rose just under half a per cent during the second month of 1977.

Comparing current prices with those at the start of the year, the AP survey found the marketbasket total increased at the checklist store in every city, with an average boost of 4 per cent, much of it due to coffee costs.

The Associated Press Marketbasket survey in Ohio shows today that grocery shoppers took another kick in the pocketbook the past month.

Average prices of 18 standard grocery store items checked in 14 cities showed the average cost bounded ahead six per cent at the end of March compared to the previous month.

Fresh tomatoes and lettuce led the per cent of increase among all items as the past winter's freeze affecting winter crops in the south reached the northern retail markets. Cost of a head of lettuce shot up 36 per cent over the month and a pound of tomatoes increased 29 per cent.

The average cost among all cities for all items was $24.38, up from $22.98 at the end of February. A year ago, the same list, excluding tomatoes and lettuce, cost $18.19. Tomato prices averaged 84 cents a pound and lettuce 60 cents a head. Simple arithmetic shows total cost of the same 16 items checked a year ago increased $4.75.

The four meat items — hamburger, chuck roast, whole frying chicken and center cut pork chops — all declined in price over the month.

Laying hens apparently were busy because egg prices dropped 25 per cent over the month to an average of 63 cents for a dozen medium white grade A eggs. A four-roll pack of toilet tissue dropped 1.2 per cent, averaging 81 cents, and a pound of store brand bread held steady at 32 cents.

Coffee prices continued their move into the luxury level, going up 11.6 per cent. Average cost of a three-pound can among the 14 cities reached $9.13, up from $8.18 a month earlier.

Average cost of the 18 items by cities included:

Akron $25.58, up 5.6 per cent; Athens, $26.07, up 8.3 per cent; Cincinnati $24.8 up 3.2 per cent; Cleveland $28.26, up 14 per cent; Columbus $25.11, up 4.3 per cent; Conneaut 23.67, up 7.1 per cent; Findlay $23.43, up 3.4 per cent; Fremont $23.94 up 2.4 per cent; Massillon $19.77, up 4 per cent; Portsmouth, $26.23, up 7.7 per cent; Salem, $23.68, up 1.9 per cent; Toledo, $22.35, up 4.5 per cent; Van Wert, $24.54, up 8.6 per cent, and Youngstown, $23.84, up 7.4 per cent.

State solons eye death bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — How do you legally define death?

Is a person dead or alive when his brain stops working but his heart keeps pumping with the help of a machine?

Should pulling the plug ever be justified?

These questions and others will plague Ohio lawmakers as hearings resume Thursday in the House Judiciary Committee on a bill that would define death as "an irreversible cessation of spontaneous respiratory and circulatory functions."

The sponsors, Reps. Scribner Fauver, R-54 Elyria, and Robert Nader, D-55 Warren, insist the bill is not "permission for mercy killing."

To gain the benefit of personal experience, Fauver told newsmen he hopes to have Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carmen appear next week to tell legislators about their 17-year-old son who hovered near death for 20 days while attached to a respirator.

The Elyria-area couple considered taking legal action to have the respirator removed after hospital officials told them the son, Randal, was showing flat brain waves and could not recover. The hospital would not disconnect the device.

But Randal Carmen died of heart failure on Oct. 11, 1975, while the respirator was still functioning. He had been injured in a backyard football game.

Committee hearings also captured the spotlight Thursday with the emergence of bills dealing with license plates and motorcycle helmets.

Meanwhile, on the House floor, representatives approved 89-2 and sent Gov. James A. Rhodes a bill that will permit elementary and secondary schools 10 closing days for foul weather that will not have to be made up at the end of the year.

The bill amends an earlier measure that established 15 "energy crisis" days to accommodate schools forced to close due to fuel shortages. If Rhodes approves, 10 of those 15 days could be used to account for either fuel or weather shutdowns.

The House Highways and Highway Safety Committee approved a bill that will stagger motor vehicle registration over a 12-month period, rather than the 60 days currently set aside. It would also permit Ohioans to obtain plates or validation stickers by mail, for an extra $1.50.

Rep. James L. Baumann, D-32 Columbus, the sponsor, said the bill will go to a roll call vote in the House next Thursday, and the role of deputy registrars will undoubtedly be debated. The legislation would enable the bureau of Motor Vehicles to implement a centralized computer system, aimed at increasing efficiency and accountability at the deputy level. Political appointments of the deputies would continue, however.

A bill to repeal Ohio's mandatory motorcycle helmet law was sent to subcommittee after opposition testimony was heard in the House Transportation and Urban Affairs Committee.

Nursing caps rich in tradition, vary in sizes and shapes

EDITOR'S NOTE:

This is the first in a series of four articles telling the story of nurse's caps. Nurse's caps? What's there to know? A lot, actually.

Most people think that the type of cap a nurse wears is determined by her nursing degree which isn't the case at all. The type of cap a nurse dons is determined by the nursing school from which she receives her degree. Consequently, many variations of the white head-piece are seen when one walks through the corridors of a hospital.

Shirley Tarbill, a registered nurse with a bachelor of science degree in nursing, is this year's co-chairman of the Fayette County Nurses Association's May Day Breakfast, to be held on Tuesday May 3, from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m., in the Mahan Building. The theme is "CAPtivating '77". Since the breakfast theme is based on the caps that nurses wear, Mrs. Tarbill thought it would be interesting to inform the public of the purpose of nursing caps.

Sometime in your life the chances are that you will be in a hospital as a patient. Or, if you are lucky and never admitted, you surely will visit a friend or relative in a hospital and upon doing this, you will see an assortment of different sized and shaped nursing caps on different sized and shaped nurses.

Recently, it has become the trend in some hospitals for nurses to go capless. But, this can be quite confusing to a patient or a visitor since most hospital personnel wear white uniforms identical to that worn by a nurse. Often, it is hard to differentiate between who is a nurse and who isn't. The cap, when worn, allows the patient or visitors to know who is a nurse.

Fortunately, nurses at Fayette

Elyria man counting winnings before second try at lottery

CLEVELAND (AP)—Elyria factor worker Gilbert Russell is a bit of a philosopher, a bit of a gambler and—Thursday night he was more than a little bit lucky.

Russell, 54, won $120,000 in the Ohio lottery's Pot O'Gold and said he hopes to "go all the way" when he comes back next week for another try at the lottery loot.

And after he counts his winnings next week, he said he will "think about retirement" from the Bendix Heavy Vehicle Systems Group, where he has worked for 26½ years.

He said he had no plans for spending the money except that he and his wife, Shirley, probably will take a trip to Las Vegas.

Russell said he usually gets to Las Vegas "once a year, but I didn't get there this year."

Asked if he planned any other travels, Russell, who lives in Avon, said, "I'm like Mark Twain. I find my happiness in my back yard."

Restaurant owner George Packis of Westlake, who won $130,000 last week, bowed out with an additional $8,700 this week.

Ana Martinek of New Richmond won $62,000 in the Double Play game. The $25,000 second prize in Double Play went to Eleanor Norris of Parma Heights, and the $11,000 third prize was taken by Ronald Hughes of Deerfield.

The six Pot O'Gold contestants included a mystery entrant from Stow whose identity was not disclosed but who walked off with $8,600.

Other Pot O'Gold winners included William Hctor of Loveland, $8,400; Anthony Alesci, Mayfield Heights, $6,500, and Georgia Santilli, Canton, $8,800.

Here are the numbers pulled in the weekly drawing:

Recommendations released

Actions taken to end strike against DP&L

Federal mediator Wesley Vanover is taking steps to immediately end the 82-day-old utility workers strike against the Dayton Power and Light Co.

Vanover has released a list of recommendations for the final settlement of the dispute between the utility company and Local 175 Utility Workers Union of America. The recommendations consist of several amendments to a proposed contract turned down by the union on March 17 by a two-to-one vote.

In making the recommendations, Vanover stated that the strike has caused severe losses and hardships to employees, the union, management, stockholders, and the general public. He added that the union and the company have been unable to find a satisfactory solution for nearly five months.

The union's contract expired in November. Over 40 of the 2,200 union members who walked off their jobs Jan. 10 are employed at the Dayton Power and Light Co. district office in Washington C.H.

Vanover, speaking through the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said that it has become clear that the strike will continue for a much longer period of time if immediate steps are not taken. He has also ordered the union to call a meeting at the earliest possible date to present the mediator's recommendations.

That meeting date has been scheduled for Monday at 8 p.m. in the University of Dayton Arena. The union will then vote on the contract which includes the mediator's recommendations on Tuesday from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Theodore Potts, vice president of the union, reported that the meeting date was set late Friday morning after the union's negotiating committee returned by plane from Washington D.C. The negotiating committee and company representatives met with the federal mediator all day Thursday.

Potts would not comment on the mediator's recommendations, saying that he will leave the decision to accept or reject the new proposal up to union members when they vote on Tuesday.

The two key recommendations offered by the federal mediator were amendments to the contract rejection March 17. One calls for a 30-day notice to the union before any changes in jobs or establishment of new jobs is made by company officials. The original contract offered by the company placed no time warning for job changes. This amendment would not go into effect until Oct. 1, 1978.

The other amendment would change the pension plan proposals in the original contract. The change will allow for a 35-year maximum accumulation of benefit years. The original contract called for 30 years.

Another of Vanover's recommendations would provide that neither the company nor the union could take any adverse action against any employee because of any strike-related

Nursing caps more than part of uniform

County Memorial Hospital have not altered their ways and continue to wear their caps.

Despite the identification purposes of the cap or the sentimental value it might have for a nurse, there are times when donning a cap isn't practical. It has always been the practice of registered nurses to go capless in surgery, but most patients are unconscious at such a time and never realize that the attending nurses are capless. In some critical and intensive care areas of a hospital, the wearing of a cap is very inconvenient or impossible.

In large city hospitals or at health centers it may be considered old-fashioned for nurses to wear their caps continuously while on duty, but local nurses feel that the public is much more secure if they know who is caring for them which is apparent when a nurse is wearing her cap and complete nurse's attire which, now-a-days, may be a color other than white.

Public health nurses also have caps but because of the nature of their work don't wear them and also don't dress in white.

Vanover also intends to set up a program that will improve relations between the union and the company.

"With the acceptance by both parties and the ratification of this agreement, the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service will undertake a technical assistance program to assist the parties in improving their collective bargaining relationship," Vanover said.

"The thrust of this program will be to promote a reasonable and responsible labor management relationship that will attain labor-management harmony and seek to avoid misunderstanding in the future," he added.

Probably every member of the Fayette County Professional Nurses Association will agree that it took them many hard, long years of study and hospital work to earn the privilege of wearing a cap. No matter how many times a cap and uniform are donned there is a certain pride and self-satisfaction garnered in knowing that you, as a nurse, are about to help someone less fortunate and the world will be a little better after a day's, or night's, nursing.

A nurse observes many "in uniform" professional conduct traditions and restrictions. Her cap is treated with as much reverence as the American flag. A nurse must prove herself worthy by attaining good grades and conduct before she is granted her cap. These high standards are met throughout a nursing career. The nurse is expected to live up to a certain code of ethics and discipline.

It is surprising how many nurses always feel a twinge of sentiment as they place their caps on their head throughout the years. She realizes people respect that cap and will expect just a little more from her.

Rainfall patterns could end drought

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Farm fields in the Midwest soaked up March's abundant rain, giving farmers who suffered through the drought of 1976 hope that the dry spell was over.

Agriculture and weather officials in Wisconsin and nearby states said the moisture would allow planting of small grains to begin, although more rain was needed to replenish water in deeper soil before summer.

Officials are optimistic about this year's farm prospects in Wisconsin, where crop losses of $623 million last year were the highest in state history.

The estimates for wheat production in the eastern two-thirds of Kansas and in Missouri were raised above earlier forecasts after last weekend's rainfall. Some credited a shift in wind currents 30,000 feet above the Earth's surface. Until about five weeks ago, the jet-stream current had been diverted around a high pressure system off the West Coast, causing rain to miss the Corn Belt, said Louis Thompson, assistant dean of agriculture at Iowa State University.

"There is no question but the circulation pattern that caused the drought has changed," said Thompson. "Whether this is permanent or not, no one can tell."

March rainfall totals were above normal across much of the Midwest. In Milwaukee, for example, the total was double the normal figure for the month. Heavy rains late in March even produced flooding in southern Illinois, southeastern Kansas and southeast Missouri.

The Midwest's April weather outlook called for above average precipitation, and officials said that would be critical to reversing the drought situation.

"We have moisture down to about two or three feet in most areas now," said Marvin Heiser, a Wisconsin Agriculture Department crop statistician. He added that the soil remained very dry below that level, to about six feet or so, and that future rains would be needed to create the deep water reserve crops draw from in summer.

He said an inch of moisture a week for the coming weeks "would be ideal." Continuation of the rains will end any doubts that remain about the end of the crop-damaging dryness.

Terrorist leader tossed in slammer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even as he held more than 100 people hostage, Hanafi Moslem leader Hamaas Abdul Khaalis was talking of a "fourth phase" of revenge, a federal prosecutor says.

Khaalis was termed a danger to the community and jailed Thursday after U.S. Atty. Earl J. Silbert told a judge the cryptic reference to a fourth phase "means to me he (Khaalis) will unleash some of his men, just as he unleashed them March 9, 10 and 11." Silbert said also that Khaalis was overheard Tuesday over a court-ordered wiretap, making "blood-curdling threats" that included the statement, "I'm going to kill somebody ... now they are going to pay ... pay in blood ... They can't do this to the Moslems."

Chief Judge Harold Greene of the D.C. Superior Court said he doesn't regard the statements as "idle words" and ordered Khaalis to jail. Khaalis thus joins his 11 Hanafi followers arrested after the siege three weeks ago. All are charged with armed kidnapping.

While the other Hanafis are held in lieu of $50,000 or $75,000 bonds, no bond will effect Khaalis' release because his personal recognizance bond was revoked.

After the hearing, federal agents arrested Khaalis, son-in-law, Abdul Aziz, and searched two houses in suburban Kensington and Hyattsville, Md., for weapons. Local police arrested three men in the process, charging them with carrying deadly weapons.

"We found guns at both premises," said Warren McConnell, a spokesman for the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. "We understand members of the Hanafis live there."

For 38 hours three weeks ago,

Khaalis and 11 other Hanafis held 134 people prisoner in three Washington buildings. A radio reporter was killed, three other people were shot, and a dozen were cut with swords or beaten. Negotiating with Khaalis for the release of the hostages, authorities agreed he would remain free until indicted by a grand jury. He was released without posting bond, on his personal recognizance, after the hostages were freed.

Carter plans revamping moves starting in June

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, armed with new powers to carry out a major campaign pledge to reorganize the federal bureaucracy, will not make his first move until June, an aide says.

Carter, who plans to sign the reorganization bill next Tuesday or Wednesday, will act first to propose a revamping of his own shop, the Executive Office of the President, deputy press secretary Rex Granum said.

The President wants to make the Executive Office a "model" for reorganization, Granum said.

The House voted 395 to 22 on Thursday to give Carter the authority he sought to reorganize federal agencies. The Senate then voted without dissent to send the measure to the White House for Carter's signature.

In essence, the bill permits the President to send Congress reorganization plans that will go into effect automatically in 60 days unless rejected in the interim by either the House or the Senate.

However, Carter could not abolish any Cabinet department or independent regulatory agency, nor could he eliminate the enforcement functions or statutory programs of any department or agency.

Although a reorganization team has been working at the Office of Management and Budget since shortly after Carter took office, Granum said the first reorganization proposal will not come until June because the President sees the revamping of the bureaucracy as a "long, well-thought-out process."

Granum said that reorganization "will not be easy," but he emphasized that Carter is determined to follow through on it because he "ran a campaign based largely on governmental reorganization and making the bureaucracies ... more effective."

One of Carter's oft repeated campaign pledges was to reduce the approximately 1,900 federal agencies and commissions to no more than 200.

Granum said the Executive Office reorganization plan will serve as a guide to refining lines of authority elsewhere in government. Without citing any examples, he suggested that the Executive Office now includes some agencies that have no need to report directly to the President and thus could be merged into Cabinet departments.

Air tragedy suits zoom

LONDON (AP) — The insurance bill for aviation's worst disaster in which 577 persons died could reach $240 million, London insurers say.

But the first two damage suits filed in California on behalf of victims of the crash are demanding more than $2 billion.

The $240 million total includes $63 million for the Pan American and KLM jumbo jets that collided on a runway in the Canary Islands last Sunday, an estimated $137 million in damages to the families of the dead and to injured survivors, and an estimated $40 million on accident insurance policies taken out by individual victims.

Insurance sources said both Pan

American and KLM are signatories to agreements limiting their liability for each passenger to $58,000 damages and $17,000 to cover legal costs. But they said American passengers are subject to a U.S. law that removes the limit if negligence is shown.

London insurance broker Julian Fraser said if one of the pilots or some other factor directly connected with either or both of the airlines is found to be to blame, compensation could be exceptionally high.

Dutch officials investigating the collision have already conceded that the KLM pilot did not have permission from the airport control tower for the takeoff he had started.

Kurfess Comments

By Charles F. Kurfess, Ohio House Minority Leader

CITIZENS FIRST

Periodically, editorial writers, political scientists and others suggest that Ohio needs legislators committed to devoting their "full time" to legislative activities. Their thought is that our more complex society and government's greater involvement demands legislators' full-time attention.

However, this runs contrary to the tradition in Ohio and most states where we have citizen-legislatures, in which elected citizens devote a large portion of their time to the legislature, but are expected to have other means of livelihood as well.

I have no quarrel with those individual legislators who consider themselves full-time, but the citizen-legislature has many advantages, and I reject the suggestion that if all legislators devoted full energies to legislative activity, the efforts would be more "professional."

By expecting legislators to have other employment, we may moderate the economic necessity some might feel to win election. Over-dependence on reelection might flavor some legislators' attitudes on issues, diminish a sense of independence, or even make them more subject to special-interest

Presley failure angers audience

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Rock singer Elvis Presley's failure to keep a concert date at Louisiana State University brought howls of protest from a crowd estimated at more than 13,000.

Presley was scheduled to begin his performance at 9:30 p.m. Thursday. At 10:10, after preliminary performances had been extended, it was announced that Presley could not perform due to "exhaustion" caused by stomach flu.

A spokesman said Presley was flying to his home in Memphis, Tenn., and would check into a hospital. Ticket money would be refunded, he said.

pressures. Also, with legislators spending most of their time in their home districts, going about their normal business, social and community activities, they are in a good position to understand the day-to-day concerns as a part of their own lives. There could be no more effective type of representation.

There is also a disadvantage in expecting legislators to spend excessive time directly in legislative activities. That may lead to a tendency to become intrigued with and involved in legislative and governmental processes themselves, thus losing some perspective as to how the results of that process might affect the citizens of Ohio. Legislators should not become part of the governmental establishment, but ought to remain representative of their home communities.

Advocates of the citizen-legislature, such as myself, believe strongly that it is better to provide acceptable working conditions and professional staff assistance to legislators, rather than paying a full-time salary and expecting legislators' exclusive time and attention. In recent years this assistance has been provided your state legislators.

One disadvantage of the citizen legislature system is that it may invite a greater degree of conflict of interest, with legislators dependent in part on private income. While this is a factor to be considered, it should be noted that regardless of a legislator's commitment to public service and reliance on public compensation, conflicts of interest are inherent and unavoidable. We are all products of our economic and social background, personal experiences, and community interests. We own our homes, pay a variety of taxes, have business interests, have children in schools, and so forth.

This legitimate concern for conflict of interest can be met best by making these interests visible to constituents. This is why the General Assembly several years ago required disclosure of the nature of economic interests and obligations each legislator has.

HEARTFELT THANKS — Dr. Robert A. Heiny (left), president of the Fayette County Heart Chapter, presents a plaque of appreciation to Dr. James J. McCracken, general chairman of this year's heart fund drive. Dr. McCracken headed the annual balloon sale as well as the door-to-door solicitation of residences and businesses for donations. Money from the heart fund drive goes for heart research and professional education.

Educators warned of energy shortage

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School administrators will have to learn to manage what's left of the dwindling energy supply until new resources are developed, an energy specialist said Thursday.

Richard J. Anderson, associate director of energy programs at Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus told 80 Ohio educators there is neither promise of short term relief nor assurances of long term solutions to the national energy dilemma.

He was one of five panelists in a workshop on managing energy use in schools held at Ohio State University Wednesday and Thursday.

Anderson predicted a depression "more fearsome than the Great Depression of the 1930s" if the United States does not pursue increased production, new development and committed management of energy sources.

But, he said, to buy time to allow development of new energy sources, "we must reduce our consumption of energy right now."

"As we approach the year 2000, the world demand for petroleum will exceed the world's ability to provide petroleum. Deposits of natural gas by the year 2000 will have been so depleted as to force the use of this precious resource only for purposes for which no other economically usable raw material is available," Anderson said.

"Like ants on a log floating steadily downstream, the American public continues to ignore the desperate energy supply situation," Anderson said. "Our consumption of petroleum products is now at an all time high, over 19 million barrels per day."

He said over half of the flow comes from abroad.

Panelist Edmund LeBlanc, a research assistant for the Columbus-based council of Educational Facility Planners, International told the participants that "with the price of energy increasing at a rate of 20 per cent per year, energy management is the only way to retrieve valuable tax dollars and to alleviate the impact of energy shortages on the schools and their students."

Castro tours African nations

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Cuban President Fidel Castro, ending a tour of several African countries, said, "I have found a continent in struggle."

Castro, who arrived here Thursday, told President Houari Boumedienne, "I have been able to evaluate the possibilities of a long and protracted liberation struggle, which can only be victorious."

Teachers may strike

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Federation of Teachers said it will ask teachers for strike authority after a Thursday contract deadline passed without a breakthrough in negotiations.

Roger Stephens, CFT president, said he expects teachers on Tuesday will grant strike authorization, to be used "when and if necessary."

CFT, affiliated with the AFLCIO, is negotiating its first contract with the Cincinnati Board of Education. The federation won bargaining rights away from the Cincinnati Teachers Association, affiliated with the Ohio Education Association.

CFT claims membership of 1,300 of the district's 3,100 teachers.

The school board, meanwhile, scheduled a meeting Monday to discuss placing a levy on the June 7 ballot. Board members indicated they want negotiations settled before the election. CFT is asking for a 16.3 per cent cost-of-living increase. The financially troubled board said it has no money in the budget for salary increases, but offered to negotiate a raise if the planned levy is approved. Stephens said that was "unacceptable."

Opinion And Comment

A bullet twice bitten

The Senate, like the House before it, has now bitten the bullet with respect to outside income. This plainly was done in response to unmistakable signs that the public has strong feelings on the subject. This popular sentiment is both understandable and well justified. Members of Congress are chosen in the expectation that they will be full-time public servants. It also is keenly felt (though perhaps "expected" would not apply here) that the lawmakers should not rake in money from special interest groups - not even in the form of payment for making speeches at their meetings.

The general view is that senators and representatives are well paid, especially after accepting a $12,900 raise and with the prospect of making another 15 per cent of base salary on the side. That is true, as the biting of the outside income bullet in effect acknowledges.

THESE DAYS...By John Chamberlain

Who stands for peace in Africa?

John Davenport, in a notable editorial in Barron's weekly, makes the incontestable point that our African policy supports guerrilla warfare and utterly subverts the rule of law upon which the UN is supposedly based.

The deal made between Rhodesia's Ian Smith and Henry Kissinger supposedly guaranteed a two-year period for hammering out a majority rule constitution that would be acceptable to Rhodesia's six million blacks and 270,000 whites. But the agreement went into the waste basket at Geneva because of the intransigence of extremist leaders who certainly control no more than a minority of the Rhodesians. These leaders want instantaneous control of the constitution-making process and are prepared to use murder, even the murder of other blacks, to get their way.

The U.S. Congress, in using the ban on Rhodesian chrome to curry favor with the intransigents and to pressure Ian Smith into immediate capitulation, has, in effect, told the guerrillas to go right ahead with their cross-border raids from foreign bases in the so-called front-line states of Mozambique and Zambia. It is an ancient axiom in international law that it is banditry or aggressive warfare to use foreign bases to support civil strife inside a country. The fact that anti-Castro Cubans trained for the Bay of Pigs in Florida and Central America does not excuse similar practices on the soil of Mozambique.

Our moralism, directed at the CIA for its role in the Cuban crisis, does not carry over in the present double-standard situation which has witnessed UN endorsement of what has been going on in Mozambique to subvert Rhodesia. One can only conclude that nobody in power cares what atrocities are committed in the name of guerrilla justice.

The irony is underscored by the UN treatment of the new South African republic of the Transe, which recently achieved its independence from South Africa. As far as one can see the Transe possesses all the attributes of a sovereign state. It is infinitely freer than East Germany or Hungary. It has elected its own leader, Paramount Chief Minister Kaiser D. Mantanzima. Unlike South Africa it does not practice apartheid. Whites are welcome to own their own businesses, the schools are integrated, mixed bathing at the public swimming pools is accepted as common practice. It is Chief Mantanzima's proud claim that he has pioneered the breakup of South Africa in its present apartheid-loving form.

The Transeki has its own army. It would hardly dare attack South Africa, but in this it does not differ from Botswana, Lesotho and Switzerland, the other free enclaves in the territory south of Rhodesia. Botswana and Lesotho are accepted by the world community as legitimate nations. They had the good luck to be freed by Britain directly.

The Transeki, by some freak, was handed over by the British to the South African Union without consultation. But being freed by South Africa is apparently different from being freed by Britain, though one can hardly see why. It isn't as if the South Africans had limited the independent Transeki to a territory insufficient to support two million Xhosa-speaking tribesmen. The land is lush enough to become, in some expert opinion, the breadbasket of the whole southern tip of Africa.

The Transeki, like the Ivory Coast, follows the free enterprise philosophy. Chief Mantanzima has said that no developing country can afford socialism — and, he adds, "developed ones can't either if their leaders are smart."

The UN may frown on the Transeki, but investors from UN countries keep offering more investment capital than the Transeki economy can absorb. The West Germans are there with heavy sawmills, furniture factories and textile establishments. The Italians provide leather goods, wool textiles, and industrial gloves as well as housing. The Netherlands has invested in Transeki sawmills, and Rhodesian companies produce high protein foods.

None of this expiates the Transeki's crime. It got its freedom without bloodshed. A terrible thing in this year of 1977 of the Christian era.

Moderate marijuana use seen unharmful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harsh penalties don't keep people from smoking marijuana and moderate use probably poses no substantial health hazard, says a new government-financed report.

The 375-page report, issued today by the National Governors Conference, also says states that have decriminalized marijuana possession have shown a "substantial" savings of tax dollars.

The report, prepared for the governors by a Washington research firm under a grant from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, says reducing criminal penalties for pot possession does "not generally lead to an immediate increase in total marijuana use, although the long-term effects of penalty reductions are less clear."

The report said its findings on marijuana use in relation to penalty reductions "implies that harsh penalty structures do not in themselves deter personal possession and private use of the drug."

The study was based on a survey of previous data, visits to nine states in which a law decriminalizing marijuana possession has been enacted or attempted and on interviews with state officials, the governors association said.

"Statewide data were used when available," the report said. "When such data did not exist, local data and the subjective estimates of knowledgeable political, criminal justice and other officials were used. Care was taken to interview individuals with differing views on the issue."

Only officials in Los Angeles told interviewers they had seen any increase in marijuana use which, in their opinion, related to removal of criminal penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana.

"Data from Oregon since its decriminalization showed no increase in use during the first two years," the report said. "However, a third-year study does show an increase in use, although not to a level above the average level in other West Coast states."

The Oregon figures indicated that changes in the law may not have an immediate effect, but may result in a gradual long-term change in public feelings about the moral, social and medical propriety of marijuana use.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Follow that buyer!

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible to find out a person's name and address if you have his automobile license number? Or will you have to answer a lot of questions first?

You see, I was kind of wandering around a shopping center during my lunch break, when a beautiful older man caught my eye. He went into a jewelry store and I followed him. I was drawn to him like a magnet. He was shopping for an anniversary gift for his wife, and I offered to help him select something. We kidded around and he said he had a daughter in college about my age.

Abby, you're going to think I'm crazy, but I have never met a man who attracted me the way this one did. I can't get him out of my mind. I don't even know his name, but I walked him to his car and took down his license number. I've just got to see him again! I'm 22 and believe me, this was love at first sight. I even dream about him.

Can you help me?

IN A DAZE IN MINNEAPOLIS

DEAR IN: It's possible to find out a person's name if you have his license number in Minnesota, but you will have to answer a lot of questions first, so I don't recommend trying. The magnetism you experienced is "physical attraction," and it happens every day. For your sake (and his) forget him, dear.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who had cancer and some of her friends avoided contact with her because they thought she was "contaminated and contagious" was sad indeed. May I add a little to what I have learned since working with the American Diabetes Association?

This malfunction (it is not really a disease) is also badly misunderstood. One woman called our office to ask where she should go for a V.D. test! Asked if she associated diabetes with venereal disease, she replied, "Why, yes, of course."

Another woman, whose husband is diabetic, had refused to share a bed with him for years. (She feared contagion.)

Since 1900, diabetes has risen from 13th to third place as a killer (heart is first, cancer second) and is the leading cause of new causes of blindness and amputations of extremities.

Abby, please urge your readers to learn more about diabetes in order to better understand the people who suffer from it.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: I will. For more information write to The American Diabetes Association, 1 West 48th Street, New York, New York 10020. They will direct you to the affiliate nearest you where free brochures are available.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's ex-wife and children live in another city. When he visits them, he sleeps at his ex-wife's house, in a separate bedroom. His ex is unmarried, and although he insists that their relationship is now platonic, I feel insecure and uncomfortable.

When I met my husband he was already divorced, and insisted he wanted nothing more to do with his ex-wife. Now when he visits her he goes on picnics with her and the children, and takes them to dinner, just like old times.

I know my husband loves me, but this situation bugs me. He has asked me to accompany him on those trips and try to be friends with his ex-wife. I refuse to go. Am I being unreasonable?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Yes. Perhaps if you went, you'd no longer feel insecure and uncomfortable. It's worth a try.

A POLYNESIAN FRUITED PORK STEW, done at the table in a chafing dish, adds a touch of tropical glamour to your company table.

Table top fruit dishes greet spring with new style

What could be better to welcome warmer weather than creating a spectacular dinner combining refreshing fruits and meat? Hardly anything! And, to chase away any leftover winter doldrums, prepare your special spring dishes with great flair in a chafing dish.

Table-top cookery is dramatic because you can do it right before your guests — no need to abandon them for the kitchen.

Polynesian Fruited Pork Stew is an imaginative combination of tastes and textures with an exotic tropical touch. Pineapple, bananas and flaked coconut blend with the pork and vegetables making an entrée that's interesting and flavorful.

Much of this elegant meal can be made ahead of time and finished at the table. Just make sure you have the ingredients near the chafing dish and use Serno canned heat. It's a no-spill, solid fuel that's totally safe, smokeless and odorless.

Curried Chicken With Fruits is another chafing dish specialty that's perfect for larger parties or second-helping guests. It, too, can partially be made ahead of time. A sauce made with orange juice and poured over the stuffed chicken breasts gives a fresh, lively touch.

FRUITED PORK STEW

1 pound pork shoulder, cut into 1-inch cubes
 1 cup flour
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, divided
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1 onion, sliced
 1 green pepper, thinly sliced
 1/2 cup chopped celery
 2 cloves garlic, minced
 1 teaspoon ground ginger
 1 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
 1 1/2 cups quartered pineapple slices or pineapple cubes
 1 package (6 ounces) frozen snow peas, thawed
 2 medium bananas, sliced
 2 tablespoons flaked coconut
 Mix flour, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Coat pork cubes with flour mixture. Melt butter in Dutch oven or kettle, add meat and brown on all sides. Add onion, green pepper, celery, garlic and ginger; cook over low heat until tender. Stir in pineapple juice; add remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cover and simmer 1 hour or until meat is tender. Transfer to deep chafing dish. Add pineapple, snow peas and sliced bananas. Heat over Serno canned heat. Sprinkle with coconut. If desired, serve in pineapple shells.

YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

Note: If desired, 1 can (1 pound) sliced pineapple in juice may be substituted for fresh pineapple. Reserve juice and add enough water to make 1 cup.

CHICKEN WITH FRUITS

1 can (8 1/2 ounces) crushed pineapple in syrup
 1/2 cup orange sections, cut in small pieces
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, divided
 1 teaspoon dry mustard, divided
 1/4 teaspoon ginger, divided
 6 chicken breasts, boned, skinned and halved
 3 tablespoons cornstarch
 1 teaspoon curry powder

Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. In small bowl, combine pineapple, orange pieces, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3/4 teaspoon dry mustard and 1/8 teaspoon ginger; reserve. Place breast halves between 2 pieces of foil; pound with side of cleaver or rolling pin to flatten. Sprinkle with 1/2 teaspoon salt. Divide pineapple-orange mixture among breast halves. Fold sides over filling and roll chicken tightly; fasten with skewers. Melt butter in blazer of 2-quart chafing dish directly over Serno canned heat. Brown chicken rolls, 6 at a time, for 15 minutes or until golden. Add enough orange juice to reserved pineapple syrup to make 3/4 cup. Add to all 12 chicken rolls in blazer; cover and simmer 30 minutes. Remove chicken rolls from blazer; strain liquid. To 1/2 cup orange juice add cornstarch, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/8 teaspoon ginger and curry powder; blend until smooth. Add cornstarch mixture to hot liquid in blazer. Heat until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Return chicken rolls to blazer and place over boiling water. Garnish with orange slices and parsley, if desired. YIELD: 12 servings.

The little town of Russia in Shelby County was named by French settlers who had marched under Napoleon into Russia; the plains and the first Ohio winter when the snow fell reminded the pioneers of Russia.—AP

Timely tips for yard, garden

Several garden projects need tackling

By JOHN P. GRUBER
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

April's here, the foliage's in bloom, and there are several jobs which need to be tackled in the yard and garden.

Things to do this week in the garden include planting asparagus, carrots, swiss chard, collards, kale, kohrabi, leaf lettuce, onions, parsley, parsnips, peas, potatoes, radishes, rhubarb, salsify, and spinach.

If you are ahead with the garden work there is a lot in the yard that needs tending early in April.

First things first. Finish pruning fruit trees, grapevines, and roses. Several of the rose bushes may need replacement if they weren't well protected this winter.

When pruning the rose bushes, remove all dead and spindly growth and cut canes back to live wood. If no live buds are left, remove the entire cane. Where two branches cross remove the weaker of the two. Shape the bush by cutting the strong canes to a uniform height.

Begin spraying or dusting roses as soon as new growth appears and apply insect and disease controls on a regular basis.

Now is also the time to fertilize woody plants in the fruit planting and in the landscape. Fruit tree spray schedules also need to be set up. If you have several fruit trees you might want to obtain a copy of the Extension Bulletin "Backyard Fruit Sprays for Insect and Diseases". It outlines a spray schedule for apples, peaches, cherries, pears, and plums beginning when the blossoms show obtain one-half inch of green.

I mentioned fertilizing trees and shrubs. Trees and shrubs, as well as the lawn and garden, will benefit from fertilizer applied. In general, complete fertilizers have the greatest use in the home garden and landscape. Complete fertilizers contain nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium. A 6-24-12 fertilizer contains six pounds of nitrogen, 24 pounds of phosphorus as P2O5 and 12 pounds of potassium as K2O in each 100 pounds of the fertilizer.

Useful analysis for home gardeners are 8-16-16, 2-12-12, 15-15-15, or 6-24-24. Be sure to avoid using fertilizers containing broadleaf weed killers in the vegetable garden.

Lawn fertilizers generally need to be higher in nitrogen and would have a ratio of about 3-1-1 for nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium.

Several folks have asked about a good herbicide (weed killer) to use in their garden. The best thing I can recommend for the garden is a good strong back and a sharp hoe. A weed killer that would control weeds in your bean crop might also kill your onions or lettuce, etc. In a small garden this makes it impractical to use chemical weed killers.

Now is a good time to plant nursery stock. If you can't get new plants planted when they arrive they must be kept in good condition until you can plant them. Be sure that root systems do not dry out or become damaged. Keep roots of plants in moist (not soggy) sand, sawdust or peat moss in as cool an area as possible. Plants tightly packed in bundles should be opened to prevent fungus growth.

Don't wait too long to apply pre-emergent herbicides for crabgrass control. The forsythia in bloom means crabgrass is the germinating soon.

Crabgrass is the most common of several annual grasses that sometimes becomes a problem in lawns. Others are foxtail, barnyard grass and annual bluegrass. Materials that control crabgrass will also give control of the other annual grasses.

A quality lawn does not need yearly treatments with herbicides for crabgrass control. Producing a dense healthy stand of grass is the best way to control crabgrass and other weeds. The use of an adapted variety of grass, adequate fertilization, proper mowing, practices, adequate moisture and insect and disease control will produce dense turf that will seldom be invaded by crabgrass.

Winter makes comeback

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter made a comeback in Montana, Maryland and the Virginias today, with cold temperatures in contrast to the warm readings of Thursday.

Stockmen in eastern Montana were advised to protect young livestock from snow, gusty wind and cold through Saturday.

Frost and freeze warnings were posted this morning for Maryland, eastern West Virginia and mountain areas of Virginia.

Showers and thunderstorms continued along the Gulf Coast. Flash flood watches were extended in southeast Texas, southern Mississippi and southeast Louisiana.

Rain also fell in the Northwest, Colorado, southern California, central Plains states, Iowa, Minnesota and the lower Mississippi Valley.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 13 at Gillette, Wyo., to 77 at Key West, Fla.

The forecast called for showers and thunderstorms from the Mississippi Valley into Georgia and the central and southern Plains states. Showers, with snow at higher elevations, were expected in the Pacific Northwest and northern Rockies as well as parts of Montana, Utah, Arizona and Colorado. Snow flurries were to fall in northern Maine.

High winds were predicted for western Texas, and readings were to be unseasonably cold in the northern Rockies. Mild temperatures were forecast for much of New England, Florida and the Gulf coast.

Many prospective donors not eligible

Blood donations fall 83 pints below quota

the Fayette County chapter of the American Red Cross fell far below its blood donation quota Thursday during the Bloodmobile visit at the Grace United Methodist Church.

A total of only 87 pints of blood were received, 83 pints below the 170-pint quota.

Miss Helen L. Slavens, executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, said the poor turnout could be attributed to the fact that persons who donated blood at the last bloodmobile visit were not eligible because of a required 56-day waiting period. She also said the calling committee of the New Holland Church of Christ women's organization, which sponsored this month's bloodmobile, was unable to reach several prospective donors.

Some 140 persons made appointments to donate blood, but there were actually only 102 donors. There were 10 first-time donors, and three walk-ins. Nine prospective donors were rejected. Thirty persons donated blood for replacement.

Robert Highfield increased his contribution to seven gallons. Pins were also distributed to Darrell DeBolt, four gallons; William E. Williams, Martha Haines and Richard Anthony, three gallons; Leona Perry, two gallons; and Corinne L. Mack, Aaron Shipley, James Meyer and Kathy Monroe, one gallon.

Physicians on duty were Dr. Cheng-

Haw Hung, Dr. Sheeing Wee Lin, Dr. Abdul Lorente, Dr. Hugh W. Payton, Dr. Joseph M. Herbert, Dr. Marvin H. Roszmann and Dr. L. Rampura.

Registered nurses were Joyce Hidy, Carol Halliday, Joan Jacobson, Gayle Roszmann, Gretchen Witherspoon, Corrine Sperry, Marilee Peterson, Janet Stahle and Kathy Blamer.

Practical nurses were Barbara Foy and Vivian Underwood.

Red Cross staff aides were Helen Slavens, Nancy Elliott, Billie Lanman, Rita Lanman, Sheree Jacobs, Helene Sanderson, Wanda Coil, Sharon Bowersox, La Veyne Bray, Kay Huber, Betty Binzel, Nadine Rost, Katie Moore, Chris Roszmann, Shirley Willoughby, Mary Lewis, Phyllis Mann, Rita Huffman and Teresa Witherspoon.

Contributing to the canteen were the ladies of the First Christian Church, the Midland Grocery Co., Sagar Dairy, Pennington Bakery, Great Scot food store, the ladies of St. Colman's Catholic Church, and Ruth Hopkins.

Canteen workers were Libby Brown, Rosemary Persinger, Cathy Meredith, Virginia Loudner, Mary Brocke, Joyce Bower, Dorothy Mahoney, Agnes Riley and Ruth Parrett.

Transportation was provided by Dorothy Miller and Marie Mace of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Welcome Wagon Club members staffing the nursery were Georgina Munn, Kathy Halverson, Carolyn Yates, Cheryl Geyer, Sandy White, Ulrike Heiby, Elaine Reiter and Betty Katenkamp.

Forty volunteers logged 200 hours at the Bloodmobile. City employes set up equipment brought by the Bloodmobile and JNROTC brigade members reloaded the equipment for the return trip.

Farm commodities increase in month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices of farm commodities rose 1 per cent during the month that ended on March 15, the fourth consecutive monthly increase, the Agriculture Department says.

Higher prices for soybeans, oranges, cattle and cotton were mainly responsible, the USDA reported Thursday. Lower prices for hogs, eggs and milk also were reported, however.

Compared to a year earlier, the March 15 farm price average was up 1.5 per cent, officials said. But farm expenses also increased one-half of 1 per cent during the month and were 5 per cent above March 15, 1976.

Officials said the farm price of soybeans at mid-month was $7.84 a bushel, up 78 cents from Feb. 15. A year earlier, soybeans were $4.46 a bushel.

Grain prices did not change much, with wheat averaging $2.45 a bushel against $2.44 on Feb. 15. A year earlier, wheat was $3.65 a bushel.

Corn, at $2.33 a bushel, was up two cents from Feb. 15. A year earlier corn was $2.50 a bushel.

Beef cattle prices, reflecting all types sold as beef, were $33.80 per 100 pounds against $33.10 in February and $33.60 a year ago.

Hogs averaged $37.10 per 100 pounds, down fom $39.30 at mid-February and $45.50 on March 15 of last year.

The department said that its index of commercial vegetable prices rose 2 per cent during the month and averaged 38 per cent above March 15, 1976. Higher prices were reported for onions, lettuce and celery while those for carrots, asparagus and cabbage declined.

CRUSADE LEADERS — The Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society has launched its annual fund-raising crusade. Leaders in this year's campaign include, left to right, Ernie Wilson, chairman; Alana Walters, county coordinator for the door-to-door crusade; Kay Cruza, chairman of the dessert smorgasbord event, and Joe Burbage, crusade co-chairman. Wilson and Burbage are holding "Swords of Hope," the symbol and registered trademark of the American Cancer Society.

Annual cancer crusade launched

The American Cancer Society's educational and fund-raising crusade in Fayette County this month will be held under the direction of chairman Ernie Wilson and co-chairman Joe Burbage.

Syndicated news columnist Ann Landers is the 1977 national crusade chairman. The crusade, which will involve 2.3 million volunteers nationwide, is under the honorary chairmanship of actor John Wayne, who scored a personal triumph over lung cancer.

"Famous names are important in drawing national attention to the crusade," Wilson said. "But cancer doesn't discriminate. It strikes the famous and the unknown, rich, poor, black and white. Thanks to the public's continuing and generous support of the cancer crusade, enormous progress has been made. There are 1,500,000 American men, women and children alive today who are cured of cancer," he said.

The local crusade chairman noted that the American Cancer Society program is three-fold. It involves research, education and service-rehabilitation programs.

"We could be saving many more lives from cancer with what we know today if everyone understood the importance of early diagnosis and prompt treatment of cancer," Burbage said. "While there are many more things that can be done for the advanced cancer patient today, treatment is most successful when applied to an early case," he added.

For this reason, the annual crusade combines education and fund-raising to support the three-fold cancer society program.

"Our volunteers will be contacting as many people in Fayette County as possible to ask for support, and to give out a pamphlet containing the best advice on safeguards against cancer," Wilson said.

The pamphlet can also be obtained free of charge from the Fayette County unit office at 732 Broadway St.

Chessie sets steam train

CLEVELAND (AP) — Chessie System says it will run an old-fashioned, steam-powered passenger train, complete with open-window coaches and an observation car, on an 8,000-mile tour this year to celebrate the 150th year of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The B&O, the nation's first railroad when it was chartered in Maryland Feb. 28, 1827, now is part of the 10-state Chessie System, which extends from the East Coast across the Midwest into Illinois and up to Michigan.

Chessie Vice-President Howard Skidmore said Thursday the "train from the past" will use a steam locomotive that drew the American Freedom Train on part of its tour of the United States in 1975 and 1976 during the nation's Bicentennial observance. The Freedom Train didn't carry passengers and "gave a lot of people the urge to ride a steam train," Skidmore said.

He said the B&O special will satisfy that desire for a lot of people, giving them a chance "to experience the earlier-day thrills of getting a cinder in your hair, being startled by the steam whistle and deafened by the clackety-clack of the wheels on the rails."

Mobutu battling Zaire dissidents

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — President Mobutu Sese Seko ordered officials today to root out a "fifth column seeking to demoralize the masses" in Kinshasa during his government's war against invading rebels from Angola. Municipal and party officials in Zaire's capital were ordered to exercise "permanent and revolutionary supervision of the masses to identify, denounce and render harmless all the agents of subversion and (Communist) ideological imperialism."

It was the first official indication of dissent among some of Kinshasa's 2 million inhabitants, who to many observers seem largely unconcerned about the fighting in Shaba province some 800 miles to the southeast.

Exiles from the province, called

Katanga when Zaire was the Belgian Congo, reportedly have captured about a third of the mineral-rich province since invading March 8.

The party said it wanted "the greatest and most revolutionary march ever seen in Kinshasa ... demonstrating total commitment to the struggle against the barbarous invasion of mercenaries from Angola."

Highway safety chief urges teens to evaluate behavior

COLUMBUS Ohio — In the final installment of a five-week series on Ohio's "young driver problem," Ohio Highway Safety Director Robert Chiaramonte today challenged each of the state's estimated 650,000 teenage drivers to step back and evaluate his or her driving behavior in terms of personal responsibility.

"What we're asking is that young people take an honest look at their current driving habits and answer a simple question," said Chiaramonte. "That question is, 'do I drive like it was a matter of life and death?'"

The highway safety chief cited last year's accident statistics as evidence that many 15-19 year-olds apparently take needless chances when they're behind the wheel — and that a tragic number wind up paying with their lives.

He pointed out that, while 15-19 year-olds represent less than 10 per cent of all drivers, they accounted for 20 per cent of all last year's traffic deaths and were involved in 24 per cent of all fatal crashes and 29 per cent of all personal injury accidents.

While inexperience was certainly a factor, Chiaramonte said, data collected by the Ohio Department of Highway Safety suggests that most of the serious crashes involving young people were caused by unsafe driving behavior like excessive speed, failure to yield and driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

"This confirms what we've been saying for years," said Chiaramonte. "Most young drivers know what to do behind the wheel; the problem is that too many of them ignore what they've been taught at a crucial moment — and then it's too late."

Chiaramonte suggested that, since accident prevention seems to hinge on drivers' attitudes, the key to reducing Ohio's teenage traffic death toll is to impress young people with the life-and-death responsibility every driver must shoulder when he or she takes the wheel of a car.

"If a young man or woman were handed a loaded gun in a crowded room, I'm certain they would be very conscious of the responsibility to handle it with extreme caution," said Chiaramonte. "Somehow, few young people see a car as the deadly weapon it really is — 2,000 pounds of steel moving at high speed — even though cars kill thousands more people than guns every year."

The highway safety chief said another attitude that must be changed is the idea prevalent among some young drivers that it's just their own life they're risking when they take needless chances on the highway. He cited 1976 figures which show that nearly half of all the teenagers killed in Ohio traffic accidents last year were helpless passengers — young people who put their lives in someone else's hands and would end up paying for his fatal mistake.

Improved efficiency highlight of DP&L's 1976 annual report

DAYTON, Ohio — Improved efficiency and production is in the highlight of the Dayton Power and Light Company's 1976 annual report, released recently.

"This annual report reviews what we have done to improve customer service, to meet future energy needs of our customers, to respond to the environment of rapid change and to earn a fair return for our investors," said Chairman Robert B. Killen and President Robert E. Frazer in their letter to shareholders.

The letter points out progress made in the areas of operation through management development programs, computerization and reorganization.

Over 800 men and women completed management development programs during 1976. "In addition to reducing costs and increasing productivity, the programs will provide us with a pool of talent that will help solve the problems and challenges facing us in the future," said Killen and Frazer.

A computerization program consisting of 13 major computer management systems is being developed that will result in substantial savings. The most dramatic of these systems is DP&L's corporate model which is a mathematical representation of the structure and operating characteristics of the company. Different operating conditions fed into the computer will produce a forecast of the results of operating under these conditions.

Operating divisions outside the Dayton area were reorganized in 1976 in a move to improve customer service. This changeover is expected to produce a savings of approximately $1 million a year.

Killen and Frazer said, "This annual report has outlined the major steps that were taken in 1976 by DP&L to satisfy the current energy needs of the 1.3 million Ohioans in our service area, and what steps we are taking to plan for the future. In 1977, we shall strive to continue these efforts."

Letter to the Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

Before the Lions and Lioness Clubs have a chance to thank the community for supporting them, I want to take this opportunity to thank all of them.

First of all for being what they are... a fun loving, happy, charitable, very American and God loving people.

Their prime project is "Sight Saving." For this they have many things going - broom sales, light bulb sales and primarily the Lions Club show.

They tell us they are grateful for our support and yet so much goes into providing us with an evening of good, clean, wholesome entertainment.

Madison Mills honor roll

MADISON MILLS — Mary Sue Spengler, principal at Madison Mills Elementary School, has announced the honor roll and honorable mention list for the fourth six-weeks grading period.

SIXTH GRADE

Honor roll — Cynthia Depugh and Karen Mowery.

Honorable Mention — Ronda Dean, Thomas Dunn, Lori Hollar, Sherri Kaser and Steve Miller.

They not only give of their endless hours for 2½ or 3 months... they also invest of their own goods. Have you stopped to realize the hours of rushing after work to get the dinner hour over for practice... the babysitters they have had to pay... the hours making costumes and scenery that I am sure had to draw a little on the family budget... the tired bodies that dropped into bed at night, wondering, only at the moment, why am I doing this?

All of this, and they are happy people at having the opportunity to not only make money for a fantastic cause, but happy at being able to provide us with that kind of entertainment and they tell us THEY are grateful to US for supporting them.

It is also amazing to me to see so much talent combined on one stage from people we are with everyday from all fields of endeavor who call themselves amateurs.

So from so many of us, who have enjoyed your talents to all of you Lions and Lionesses - thank you and God bless you all.

Farm family bill approved

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill which permits children of farm families to do certain chores on their parents' property, without being in violation of child labor laws, has been approved 87-0 by the House.

Sponsoring Rep. Eugene Branstool, D-1 Utica, said the measure allows circumvention of existing laws which prohibit youngsters under 18 from a variety of hazardous jobs.

Some include operation of elevators or mechanical lifting devices, oiling and cleaning of moving equipment, and operating of emery wheels.

The House defeated 55-32 an amendment by Rep. Gene Damschroder, R-85 Fremont, extending the bill's provisions to work done by minors on farms of neighbors, if accompanied by their parents, for seasonal harvests and similar purposes.

Branstool's bill now goes to the Senate.

Interstate 80 name proposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Interstate 80 across northern Ohio would be named the "Christopher Columbus Highway" under a measure now half way through the legislature.

The House went along 88-0 Thursday with the bill by Rep. A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, who said it represents a national effort but "is particularly fitting" in a state that named its capital for the famous explorer.

Blue Lions honor winter sports stars

By MARK REA

Record-Herald Sports Editor

The Washington C.H. Blue Lion 1976-77 boys and girls basketball teams were honored last night with the annual winter awards banquet.

Three teams of boys, two teams of girls, and three cheerleader squads were recognized as their various coaches and advisors handed out awards.

The program began with a drawing from the Blue Lion Booster Club's "200 Club." Lloyd Cartwright and Joe Shoemaker each won $100.

Guests and administration were introduced by athletic director Jon Creamer, who served as the master of ceremonies.

Cheerleaders were awarded first on the program. Debbie Stoltz, freshman advisor, thanked all the girls who participated.

The freshmen honored were Kelly Mounts, Joni Gardner, Lana McCoy, Susan Moore, Tammy Schneider, and Gloria Smith.

Reserve and varsity squads were honored by Maggie Owen. Reserves were Kim Immell, Wanda Aills, Susan DaRif, Becky Darling, Stella Hunter, and Kitten Sagar.

Varsity team members were Beth Kimmitt, Beth Schaeper, Jill Schaeper, Jo Leggett, Kathy Dugan, and Nancy Marchant.

Cindy Carper, girls basketball coach, followed the cheerleaders and she presented a slide show of the season. She commented on various team members during the slides.

The reserve and varsity teams were honored, along with managers and trainers. Special awards were given to three girls on the varsity team.

Kim Eckles, a senior, won the most improved player trophy. Becky Wheat took home the "Charlie Hustle" award. And, Sally Robinson won the coveted most valuable player award.

Lions head coach Gary Shaffer handled the introductions of the freshmen team, a team that he and reserve coach Rick Crooks coached this season.

All 11 members of the team will receive their freshmen letters.

Crooks handled the reserve awards. He stated that it was an easier coaching job for him this season in his first year as reserve coach because he had seen and coached his players before.

He reflected on the high and low points of the season before handing out the 10 awards to the reserve team members.

Shaffer kicked off the varsity awards by presenting his wife with a gift for their anniversary. He then proceeded to hand out several trophies to the eight members of the varsity team.

Dee Foster received the captain trophy and the best defensive award; Mark Burke took home the "Super Sub" award; Tom Dean won a trophy for best free throw percentage; Tony Tyree was presented the most improved player trophy; and John Denen received a three year award, the trophy for best field goal percentage, and the rebounding trophy.

Afterward, Shaffer presented Washington Senior High School principal Maurice Pfeiffer with a trophy, representative of the Blue Lions as sectional champs.

Pfeiffer accepted the trophy and closed the program on a humorous note by giving Shaffer some good-natured ribbing.

Hart Foster (captain and best defensive player), Mark Burke ("Super Sub"), and Tom Dean (best free throw shooter). Tony Tyree (most improved player) was absent.

MT thinclads blitz Lions

By MARK REA

Record-Herald Sports Editor

EBER, Ohio — The heavily favored Miami Trace tracksters scored a heavily lopsided win over county rivals Washington C.H. last night, 89-38.

The Panther thinclads took home 14 firsts in the 15 events. Only Bob Fridley's win in 180-yard low hurdles kept the Lions from being shut out for the second time in as many meets.

When asked for his comments, Lions track coach Rick Crooks stated only, "Pretty bad."

Miami Trace was led by Dan Gifford, who scored a pair of victories in the long jump and high jump. Gifford narrowly missed his own high jump record, leaping 6-5½ in just the second meet of the year.

He also grabbed a first place in the long jump with a jump of 19-3. He beat his nearest competitor in the high jump by nearly 10 inches and in the long jump, lengthened his margin of victory to a full foot.

Trace coach Bill Beatty singled out Gifford for "excellent distance, especially for this time of year."

Beatty also had praise for sophomore Brian Zurfance. Zurfance scored an in-

"The highlight of the meet as far as I was concerned," said Beatty, "was Scott Halterman." Halterman, only a freshman, won the two-mile run by 12 seconds with a time of 11:08 flat.

Washington C.H. will to right itself tonight as they host only their second meet in three years. Zane Trace will be the first to sample the Blue Lion's new facilities at Gardner Park. Events are scheduled to get underway at 4:30 p.m.

Miami Trace will enter major competition Saturday as they will travel to Chillicothe to compete in the Chillicothe Relays. The events are scheduled for 1 p.m.

FAMILIAR FACE BREAKS THE TAPE — Art Schlichter of Miami Trace outdistances everyone in 440-yard run in last night's track meet between Washington C.H. and the Panthers. Schlichter ran away with the race and Trace ran away with the meet, 89-38.

HARDWARE IN HAND — Washington C.H. basketball coach Gary Shaffer presents Washington Senior High School principal Maurice Pfeiffer with a trophy representative of the Lions sectional championship.

In NL West division

When you've said Reds, you've said it all

First, there are the Cincinnati Reds and ... say, that just about sums up the pennant race in the National League West, doesn't it?

The two-time world champions virtually stood pat after the 1976 season. Other teams made wholesale changes.

The result: If luck is against them, the Reds may win the divisional title by only nine games this year. If it is with them, they will win it by even more than last year's 10 games.

The Los Angeles Dodgers again will be the primary challengers. San Diego could threaten—unless Randy Jones falters. If that is the case, the San Francisco Giants will nose out the Padres for third place. Atlanta and Houston figure to stagger around near the bottom of the division.

Cincinnati refused to enter the high-priced free-agent bidding even though it lost one of its pitching stars, Don Gullett. Nevertheless, the Reds managed to improve their pitching situation.

They dealt Tony Perez, their aging first baseman, and relief pitcher Will McEneaney to the Montreal Expos in exchange for Dale Murray, who could become their star reliever, and ol' Woodie Fryman, a starter.

They join an already solid crew with starters including Gary Nolan (15-9), Fred Norman (12-7), NL co-rookie Pat Zachry (14-7) and Santo Alcala (11-4) and relievers Rawly Eastwick and Pedro Borbon.

Catching all those pitchers—and hitting the rest of the league's pitchers—is Johnny Bench. He had a dismal season (.234 average, 16 home runs 74 runs batted in), but showed he has plenty left by winning the World Series Most Valuable Player Award (.333 average, two homers, six RBI, all Series-leading figures).

Dan Driessen, the Reds' premier pinch hitter last year and the NL's first designated hitter in the World Series, gets a job of his own. Perez' first base spot. He joins one of the major leagues' best infields, with second baseman Joe Morgan (National League MVP, .320 average, 27 homers, 111 RBI, 60 stolen bases, 113 runs scored), shortstop Dave Concepcion (.281 average, 69 RBI) and third baseman Pete Rose (.323 average, 63 RBI, league-high 130 runs scored).

And in the outfield there are George Foster (.306, 29 homers, 121 RBI), Ken Griffey (.336 average, 74 RBI, 111 runs scored) and Cesar Geronimo (.307).

Even the reserves (Bob Bailey, .298; Ed Armbrister, .295; Doug Flynn, .283) are enough to shake up the opposition.

Some of the Dodgers taking the field this season were not even born when Walter Alston began his incredible string of 23 seasons as the team's manager. Now they have a new boss, Tom Lasorda, a coach for Los Angeles since 1973. What he has to work with is one of the best, most balanced squads in the league. If the Dodgers were in the East Division, they likely would be flag favorites. But with Cincinnati around, they're only second best.

Outfielder Rick Monday, acquired from Chicago, gained national recognition last April 25 (in Los Angeles, as a matter of fact) by rescuing a flag from two young men who tried to set it afire. Now the Dodgers hope his bat (32 homers, 77 RBI in 1976) can set them afire.

Also available for the outfield are veterans Reggie Smith, Dusty Baker, Lee Lacy and Manny Mota, and youngsters John Hale and Glenn Burke. It is not exactly a powerhouse, but it will do.

Steve Garvey (.317, 13 homers, 80 RBI), Ron Cey (.277, 23, 80), Dave Lopes (league-leading 63 stolen bases) and Bill Russell (.274, 65 RBI) make up the infield. Newcomer Johnny Oates, from Philadelphia, is battling Steve Yeager for the catching job.

Pitching has long been the Dodgers' trademark. That is beginning to fade a bit, but it still is a strong suit with Don Sutton (21-10), Rick Rhoden (12-3), Doug Rau (16-12) and reliever Charlie Hough (12-8, 2.20 earned run average). If Al Downing, Burt Hooton and Tommy John have more respectable seasons (they were a combined 22-27 last year) or if Dennis Lewallyn, Rex Hudson or Dewey Forry make it big, Los Angeles' challenge for the flag would be a much stronger one.

The Padres' hopes have to rest to a great degree on Jones' left arm, the one that junkballed him to the 1976 NL Cy Young Award with a 22-14 record and a 2.74 ERA. Jones burned up the league for the first half of the season (16-3), then faded. A late-season auto accident and post-season surgery have left his capabilities in doubt.

If he folds, he will have more bullpen help to look forward to this year. Butch Metzger (11-4, 16 saves, 2.93 ERA, NL co-Rookie of the Year) is joined by long-time Oakland relief ace Rollie Fingers.

San Diego's hitting should be helped by the arrival of Gene Tenace from the A's and George Hendrick from Cleveland. They bring power to go along with the solid averages of Mike Ivie (.291) and Dave Winfield (.283).

The Giants now have in their lineup the NL's best batter the past two seasons—third baseman Bill Madlock (.339, 15 homers, 84 RBI in 1976), acquired in the deal that sent outfielder Bobby Murcer to the Chicago Cubs. That has to help raise new Manager Joe Altobelli's spirits—and raise San Francisco from low batting mark.

Owner Ted Turner went all out to drag his Braves up to respectability by signing two big names.

He got free agent Gary Matthews (.279 average, 20 homers, 84 RBI).

Turner then traded a wave of players (outfielders Ken Henderson and Dave May and pitchers Roger Moret, Carl Morton and Adrian Devine) to Texas in exchange for Jeff Burroughs.

With the exception of the late-spring acquisition of Willie Crawford (to replace injured Cesar Cedeño), Houston did little in the off-season to keep up with other improving clubs in the division and likely will slide back from last year's surprise third-place finish.

Charge of prejudice against judge eyed

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ohio Chief Justice C. William O'Neal is deliberating a charge of prejudice by the Ohio Attorney General's office against the trial judge in a suit against the state's school financing system which was filed three months after the trial began.

The state attorneys filed the motion Monday charging that visiting Judge Paul E. Riley, Clinton County, hearing the case in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court, "has a bias or prejudice" against the state and its counsel and in favor of the Cincinnati Board of Education.

The motion asks that Riley be removed from the case but no specifics were mentioned.

"This is the first time I remember such a motion being filed three months into the trial," said John A. Lloyd Jr., representing the board. He noted there are already 4,000 pages of testimony, 44 witnesses and 1,000 pieces of evidence and "I still have about 25 more witnesses to call," Lloyd said.

The class action suit charged the state's system of financing schools is discriminatory against urban pupils because urban school districts' costs are higher than suburban or rural schools.

The result, the city maintains, is that urban school children are short-changed in dollars per pupil spent on education and the quality of that education is lower than rich, suburban or small town districts.

Schoolmen from all over the state as well as parents and school organizations have testified.

Cincinnati wants the court to declare the system unconstitutional because state funds distributed to local school districts depends on the ability of those local districts to win voter approval of tax levies.

Lloyd suggested, that if the city wins the case, the Ohio Legislature should consider a state-wide income tax for schools rather than depend on property taxes.

The state, in opening arguments, contended Cincinnati's school finance problems were a matter of mismanagement and that state funds are distributed on an equitable basis.

TV Viewing

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After two seasons of trucking in NBC's "Movin' On," regged-featured Claude Akins is staying put—for at least four Fridays—in CBS' new "Nashville 99," which premieres tonight.

He now plays a plainclothes cop, Lt. Stoney Huff, backed by Nashville constable Trace Mayne (where do they get these names), played by singer-guitarist Jerry Reed, a genuine Music Row resident.

The opening yarn, unraveled by Jimmy Sangster, features a famous gospel singer (played by Oscar nominee Ned Beatty), the kidnapping of his famed singing wife, one illicit romance, a pistol shot and a murder.

There isn't enough plot putty in the world to fill the holes in tonight's story, which starts with the arrival of a tour bus at the big home of the rich, devoted couple (Belinda Montgomery plays the wife).

There, the tourists hear a recorded message from Beatty, thanking them for making him and his wife stars, and even get a quick wave and a smile from both husband and wife. Then the plot thins.

The wife, who'd been out for a horse-back ride, gets kidnapped by a masked man at the barn. A distraught Beatty then is advised $500,000 will return his bride. He's also advised not to call the cops.

In due course, Akins, who lives with his good-humored, widowed mother (Lucille Benson) is advised by Reed of the wife heist. He goes to work after persuading an easy-going reporter to hold the big story for 48 hours.

As things progress, we learn that our gospel singer, instead of being the righteous man his fans believe in, is a buckgrubbing hypocrite who often gets drunk, beats his wife and has crippled his stepdaughter.

And the kidnaper (Don Johnson) turns out to be one of Nashville's hottest young composer-arrangers who, unbeknownst to either Akins or Beatty, secretly is having an affair with...aw, you guess who.

Twists and turns ensue. I don't want to reveal too much, but you'll know the show's over when Akins turns to his partner and softly says: "Trace, two people have died. What's the harm if we let the legend live?"

You may suspect this "Nashville 99" episode is a turkey. Oddly, only the script is. The show's acting and atmosphere actually are pretty good.

I may have spent too many happy nights taking the waters at Tootsie's Orchid Lounge near the old Grand Ole Opry in downtown Nashville, but I kind of like this one-hour effort.

HORSE OWNERS—USE

—you'll see the difference in a short time!

Golden Groom is a high-protein (32%) blend of brewers dried yeast, dried grains and cane blackstrap molasses. It's an excellent source of B Vitamins, minerals and amino acids essential for good horse nutrition.

A cup each feeding, mixed with the grain ration, begins to show results in a relatively short time—smoother, glossier coat, better appetite, improved over-all appearance.

The molasses in Golden Groom makes this 100% natural supplement highly palatable to horses. Contains substantial amount of naturally-occurring selenium. Try it and see the difference!

Three-vehicle accident checked

The Washington C.H. Police Department investigated a three-vehicle accident at the intersection of Washington Avenue and Elm Street, Thursday afternoon.

Police officers reported that a car driven by Irma J. King, 46, of 1013 Golfview Drive, turned left onto Washington Avenue and was struck by a car driven by Stergios Z. Balahtsis, 16, of 238 Kathryn Court. Following the collision the King auto struck a car, which was driven by Ray Fannin, 21, of 716 Market St., that was stopped for a traffic signal at the intersection.

Mrs. King was cited for failure to yield the right of way and her car was severely damaged. The Balahtsis auto received moderate damage and Fannin's car was not damaged. There were no injuries.

Federal grant program slated to assist rural firefighters

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Ohio Department of Natural Resources' Division of Forestry is administering a federal grant program to assist Ohio's rural fire departments.

The forestry division will distribute $91,710 to qualifying communities. The funds are being made available to Ohio by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The Rural Development Act of 1972 authorizes up to 50 per cent federal funding to upgrade rural fire departments serving communities under 10,000 people or groups of small communities which have joined together to serve more than 10,000 people.

The federal matching funds may be used to purchase equipment, to train firefighters, or to pay miscellaneous costs of new departments that are organizing, said Ernest J. Gebhart, chief of the forestry division.

Grants to individual departments are limited to $4,000.

"Rural fire departments continually need to be upgraded in order to be effective in fighting rural fires and keeping losses at a minimum," Gebhart said.

These departments assist the Forestry Division in providing fire protection for over 8½ million acres of forest and grass land in Ohio.

Priority will be given to communities that have applied for loans through the Farmers Home Administration to construct fire department buildings or water systems, or to purchase major fire apparatus.

Applications and guidelines for applying for the grants may be obtained by writing to the Division of Forestry, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus 43224. Applications must be returned to the forestry division by May 6 to qualify for the program.

Ford to discuss military role

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Gerald R. Ford will discuss his role as commander-in-chief of the armed forces during his first paid appearance on NBC-TV, says the president of NBC News.

During a speech Thursday, NBC News President Richard Wald said Ford might discuss how he learned about the Mayaguez incident, what decisions he had to make, and to whom he gave orders.

Wald said, "Essentially ... it will center on something like an anecdotal history of what the presidency is like."

No date has been set for Ford's appearance on the network and the format of the show has not been determined, he said.

Wald also declined to discuss how much Ford would be paid, but speculation has been that total fees could be about $1.5 million.
